RSI Membership Classification

Dues are based on the member company's Global Railway products and services for rail transportation use or Global Sales to Rail Suppliers for rail transportation use. The membership category is selected by the member company based on gross sales to rail transportation or to other suppliers for rail transportation use during the immediate preceding calendar year. (i.e., if your rail sales/service revenue last year was $15 million, check class II-A and pay $6,000.00 in dues for 2010)

Important: A member company's wholly owned divisions or subsidiaries may be included under the principal company's membership providing that the individual wholly owned divisions or subsidiaries total gross rail sales/service revenue is considered when figuring 2010 RSI dues.

RSI is a not-for-profit incorporated trade association under S501 (c) of the Internal Revenue Code. Hence, dues are not deductible as a charitable contribution; but that percentage of your dues not allocated to federal and state lobbying is deductible as a normal business expense. You will be advised of the non-deductible percentage when your dues payment is received.
